

QUESTION'S

Poem "Daffodils"

Box Questions and Answers based on the poem "Daffodils" by "William Wordsworth"

1. Who is the speaker in the poem, and what is he doing in the beginning?

Ans: The speaker is the poet, William Wordsworth. In the beginning, he is walking alone in the countryside.

2. Which natural element is compared to in the first line?

Ans: The poet compares himself to a cloud floating in the sky.

3. Where does the speaker encounter the daffodils, and how are they described?

Ans: The speaker sees the daffodils beside a lake, under the trees. They are golden in color and dancing in the wind.

4. How does the poet describe the number of daffodils?

Ans: He says there were thousands of daffodils, stretched in a long line, just like stars in the sky.

5. What action is being performed by the daffodils in the breeze?

Ans: The daffodils are fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

6. How do the waves beside the daffodils compare to the daffodils themselves?

Ans: The waves were also dancing, but the daffodils were happier and more cheerful than the waves.

7. What effect do the daffodils have on the poet's mood?

Ans: The daffodils make the poet feel happy and joyful.

8. What does the poet mean by "jocund company"?

Ans: "Jocund company" means a happy and cheerful group. The poet felt happy being among the daffodils.

9. What happens when the poet lies on his couch in a vacant or pensive mood?

Ans: When the poet lies on his couch and feels bored or thoughtful, he remembers the daffodils.

10. What is the "inward eye" that the poet mentions?

Ans: The "inward eye" means the poet's memory or imagination.

11. How does the memory of the daffodils affect the poet in the end?

Ans: The memory of the daffodils makes the poet's heart feel joy and he feels as if he is dancing with the daffodils.

Reading and Critical Thinking

Questions from the poem "Daffodils" by William Wordsworth:

1. What is the central idea of the poem "Daffodils"?

Ans: The central idea is that nature, especially beautiful things like flowers, can bring peace, joy, and comfort to our hearts, even when we are alone or sad.

2. Describe the setting where the poet saw the daffodils. How does this setting contribute to the overall mood of the poem?

Ans: The poet saw the daffodils beside a lake, under trees, with a cool breeze blowing. This peaceful and beautiful setting adds to the happy and calm mood of the poem.

3. How does the poet describe the daffodils? What imagery does he use to bring them to life?

Ans: He describes them as golden, shining like stars, fluttering and dancing in the breeze. The imagery of stars and dancing flowers makes the daffodils look bright, alive, and cheerful.

4. Identify and explain the use of personification in the poem.

Ans: The poet uses personification by saying the daffodils were "dancing" and had "heads." He treats the flowers like happy people to show their joyful movement.

5. What is the effect of the rhyme scheme on the poem's rhythm and flow?

Ans: The poem has a regular rhyme scheme (ABABCC) which gives it a smooth and musical flow, making it enjoyable and easy to read.

6. Why do you think the poet describes the daffodils as "jocund company"? What impact do they have on him?

Ans: "Jocund company" means happy company. The daffodils make the poet feel cheerful and no longer alone. Their beauty lifts his mood.

7. The poet mentions the "bliss of solitude." What do you think he means by this, and how do the daffodils contribute to this feeling?

Ans: "Bliss of solitude" means enjoying peace while being alone. The memory of the daffodils gives the poet happiness when he is sitting quietly by himself.

8. Imagine you are the poet revisiting the same place after many years. Write a short paragraph describing your feelings and the scene as it might appear now.

Ans: As I walk to the same lakeside after many years, I feel a deep joy in my heart. The daffodils are still there, dancing gently in the wind, just like before. The trees are taller now, and the lake is calm and clear. The fresh air and golden flowers bring back memories of my youth. I feel peaceful and thankful for this beautiful moment once again.